Agencies that oversee hemp cultivation and processing are tasked with licensing and regulating business operations, reviewing planting reports and test results, and addressing complaints or non-compliance issues. With Accela Hemp Regulation, agencies can monitor and track the cultivation, storage, transportation, and disposition of hemp crops.

Accela Hemp Regulation automates multiple manual processes, making agencies more efficient. With a full-featured suite of licensing, regulation and reporting tools, Accela Hemp Regulation is the complete solution for agencies charged with hemp oversight.

Automate Manual Processes

Agencies taking on hemp regulation can quickly become overwhelmed with the licensing process. Fortunately, Accela Hemp Regulation automates many of the manual tasks of reviewing and approving license applications and renewals, freeing staff members to focus on critical issues, not the mundane. Automated workflows simplify and streamline the review process, saving agencies time and money.

More Effective Field Inspections

Time-crunched field inspectors need to be as efficient as possible. Accela's mobile apps are fully GIS-integrated to quickly find exact farm and field locations. Inspectors have full access to the database and can upload photo, video, or text documentation during the inspection. And with offline access, inspectors can perform their duties quickly and efficiently regardless of location or mobile connectivity.

Enhance Customer Service

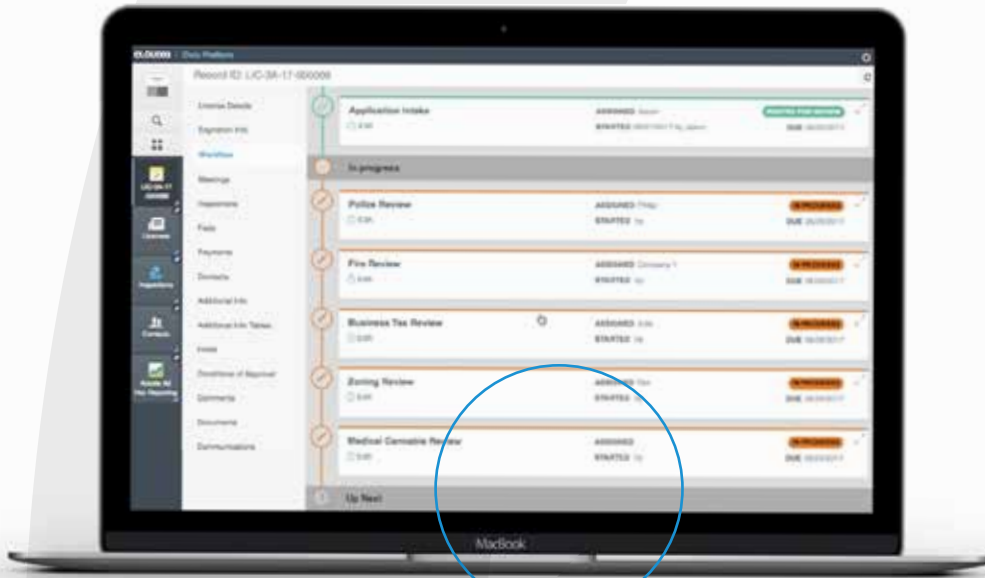

Hemp cultivators often work long hours, with little free time. Accela opens your agency up for business 24/7, from any location. With the Accela online portal, applicants can initiate an application, check the status of an existing application, pay fees, renew a license, or upload required documentation. And with full mobile access, Accela makes it easy for cultivators to engage with your agency from anywhere, anytime they have a few minutes available.

Maintain Oversight

Accela Hemp Regulation delivers a wealth of information agencies can use to maintain oversight of hemp operations in their state. With a powerful set of reporting tools available, agencies can quickly see the number of licensed growers or processors of hemp, number of acres currently planted, number of acres planned, locations planted, infractions, citizen complaints, or other valuable information.

Share Data with Law Enforcement

With Accela, law enforcement agents have 24/7 access to hemp cultivation data to verify cultivators are legal and licensed. Data sharing across agencies protects legal operators while discouraging illegal grows.
